Putin open to tripartite talks with Ukraine and US

Kremlin says Kyiv & Europe's peace proposals lack 'substance', but OK with talks after Witkoff visit; Putin-Trump-Xi summit next month

Russia's President Vladimir Putin (R) greets US special envoy Steve Witkoff (L) prior to their meeting in Saint Petersburg | AFP

MOSCOW

RUSSIA is open to resuming trilateral talks with Washington and Kyiv towards ending the Ukraine war, the Kremlin said after Vladimir Putin met US special envoy Steve Witkoff on Wednesday, but decried little "substance" in new Ukrainian and European approaches.

Moscow also said a summit between Putin, US President Donald Trump and China's Xi Jinping was being prepared in China's Shenzhen for next month, calling it "the first such meeting in history."

Putin held over three hours of talks with Witkoff in his home city of Saint Petersburg, a day after what the US official called a "productive" meeting with Ukraine's Volodymyr Zelenskyy in Norway. As Witkoff touched down in Russia, Moscow freed a US citizen -- Stephen Hubbard -- and said it would soon begin diesel shipments to America.

Trump's son-in-law Jared Kushner also took part in the talks with Putin remotely.

Over a year of US-led talks to end the Ukraine war -- launched by Moscow in 2022 — have not yet led to a breakthrough, with tens of thousands killed.

Kremlin aide Yuri Ushakov told reporters, including AFP, that Witkoff briefed Putin on "some new aspects in the approaches of the Europeans and Kyiv" from the Oslo meeting, adding though that "there wasn't really much substance in them". Ushakov said a "first ever" China-US-Russia meeting was "being prepared" in China, without saying what the leaders would discuss.

"I always said that we are open to negotiate in any format, any topics. But don't speak about us without us, please," Zelenskyy told US media Fox News on Wednesday. Witkoff held his ninth meeting with Putin as Russia continued to pound Ukrainian cities ahead of winter and amid a bitter feud between Trump and Zelenskyy. "We've brought some papers. It's really some ideas, some sort of peace deal between Russia and Ukraine, and you'll read that at your leisure," Witkoff told Putin in Saint Petersburg's Konstantinovsky Palace ahead of the talks.

Witkoff told Putin he saw "some degree of momentum" in the US-led talks after meeting Zelenskyy. He who remained in Norway Wednesday, meeting with the Nordic country's political leaders, said he was waiting to hear "whether the American side manages to hear something new from Russia today". The Witkoff-Zelensky meeting on Tuesday followed days of friction between Washington and Kyiv, and calls from Trump for the Ukrainian leader to be replaced.

Witkoff also told Putin that Washington was "grateful" for a diesel deal, which saw US sanctions on Moscow eased to allow Russian fuel to flow to the United States, sparking outrage in Kyiv and across Europe. AFP

Russia frees jailed US man after Don, Putin talk over call

MOSCOW

RUSSIA on Wednesday freed an American who had been jailed for more than four years on charges of fighting as a mercenary in Ukraine, in a deal completed during a visit by a top US envoy and at a time when President Donald Trump has taken a series of actions meant to benefit Moscow.

Trump said in a Truth Social post that he had asked Russian President Vladimir Putin during a phone call last week to free Stephen Hubbard, and that, unlike previous releases, the US did not have to give up anyone in return.

"Welcome home, Stephen, it's great to have you back," Trump said. Hubbard, a 74-year-old former teacher from Michigan, was on his way home following a visit to St Petersburg by US envoy Steve Witkoff.

Hubbard was sentenced in 2024 to nearly seven years in prison following a closed trial. Prosecutors said he had signed a contract with the Ukrainian military after Russia's full-scale invasion in February 2022, and that he fought alongside Kyiv's forces until being captured two months later. The US government under the Biden administration designated Hubbard as wrongfully detained.

Witkoff thanked Putin for releasing Hubbard, telling him, "Because of you, he's going home to his family."

"You talk so much about my president, President Trump, being a humanitarian. You are a humanitarian also, sir," Witkoff said. AFP

Iran regime must fall to end threats: Bibi

Iraq closes Iran border under US pressure

BAGHDAD: Iraq closed the al-Sheeb border crossing with Iran indefinitely on Wednesday, with sources saying Washington is pressuring Baghdad to shut more crossings. The move comes as the US seeks to tighten economic pressure on Tehran following the West Asia war's outbreak in February. Two sources said Washington had urged countries bordering Iran to close crossings. Iranian authorities also acknowledged disruptions to border trade with Pakistan.

Indonesia, Qatar, Turkiye, and Pak sign defence pact

DOHA: Qatar, Turkiye, Indonesia and Pakistan have signed a new defence industry agreement in Doha to develop and produce military equipment and defence systems jointly. The memorandum of understanding includes plans to establish a defence production hub in Qatar, with cooperation focused on technology transfer, joint manufacturing, and strengthening capabilities against ballistic missiles, drones and cyberattacks.

DIMONA

ISRAELI Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said on Wednesday that the only way to remove the threat posed by Iran was to topple its government.

"Iran wanted to destroy us; we stopped them. They wanted to produce nuclear bombs; we stopped them... Yet they persist," he said during an election rally in the southern town of Dimona. "Therefore, there is only one way to end this: by toppling this regime." "This is the directive I have issued to the Israel Defense Forces, to the Mossad, and to all our security branches," he added, without specifying when or how that directive would be executed. The sabre-rattling came as the premier headed into the last week of a tight race for re-election.

Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed Bin Salman accompanies French President Emmanuel Macron after a meeting at Al Yamamah Palace in Riyadh | AFP

Macron in Riyadh

Meanwhile, French President Emmanuel Macron visited Riyadh on Wednesday for a surprise "solidarity" visit, making him the first Western leader to touch down in the kingdom since Yemen's Iran-backed Houthis intensified their attacks this month.

The unannounced trip sent a strong signal to his oil-rich Saudi ally as Riyadh comes under near-daily attack. It was part of a Gulf tour to secure oil and diesel and bring down prices in France, following a weekend of violent protests over soaring living costs. Earlier on Wednesday, Macron said France had sent troops to help shield the key Saudi oil terminal of Yanbu on the Red Sea from Houthi attacks, while insisting it was important that "discussions resume" with the group.

"All crew are reported as safe. There is no reported environmental impact at this time," it said.

Saudi intercepts 6 drones

UK approves natural gas project amid opposition

LONDON: The UK approved the Jackdaw gas project off Scotland on Wednesday, citing energy security despite environmental opposition. Gas production is expected to begin later this year, contributing about 5% of UK output over 11 years. Donald Trump welcomed the decision, urging Britain to drill "full blast". Environmental groups warned the project would increase emissions while doing little to lower prices.

Netanyahu rival rules out serving under him after polls

JERUSALEM

PRIME Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's main rival in October 27 elections, ex-army chief Gadi Eisenkot, said on Wednesday that he would refuse to serve as a minister in a new government led by the current premier, Netanyahu.

With the elections just days away, and predictions that no side will win on its own, some commentators have raised the possibility of a unity government convening Netanyahu's right-wing bloc with centrist and centre-right parties.

But speaking to radio station 103 FM on Wednesday, Eisenkot said he was committed, "categorically, to not serving under Netanyahu's leadership, even within the framework of a rotation" deal in which the two shared power. Eisenkot has campaigned on attacking the fitness to serve of Netanyahu, especially over his failure to prevent the October 7, 2023 attack by Hamas. AFP
